

While there have been recent reports of crime or violence in Mexico reported in the U.S. press, Los Cabos remains largely unaffected by these incidents. Unlike border towns such as Tijuana and Juarez, Los Cabo is located at the tip of the Baja Peninsula and is separated from Mexico's mainland by the Sea of Cortes. This isolated setting protects Los Cabos from feeling the affects of political or social unrest that may occur in other areas of Mexico.

Tourism is of utmost importance to Los Cabos and we would like all of our visitors to be assured that the Los Cabos Convention & Visitors Bureau is actively involved and in constant communication with the US and Canadian consulates. Additionally, in 2008 the State Government installed hi-end security technology at all airports and roadways throughout Baja California Sur, ensuring complete vehicle and passenger inspection upon entry to the state. We are committed to overseeing the safety and well being of our visitors and to offering a flawless travel experience. Security is a top priority, not only within our hotels but also throughout all areas of the destination.

/more...